THE treasury department, says a Washington dispatch, has issued a circular saying: "You will exact from steamboat inspectors a strict fidelity to the true intent and meaning of the seventy-eighth rule and statute on which it is founded. The duty is enjoined upon inspectors of frequent visits to excursteamers in order to have personal knowledge that the equipments are kept up to the original requirements, and that the hull and boilers are entirely safe."

SECRETARY SCHURZ pronounces as slanlerously unique the recently repeated story of his borrowing money from George Schneider and then paying the debt by having him appointed to the Swiss mission. The secretary also says that he never had any pecuniary transactions with Schneider and took no part in the movement for his appointment further than to state that he believed him to be a man of good reputation and business ability. How in the world could such a report get out about the secretary?

The guerrilla chief Quintero Calderon also announced his wiflingness to deliver up his arms, disband his forces, and recognize the authority of the The Turkish right wing, which is at Delibaba,

A COUPLE of instances afforded Post-Master-General Key opportunities to herald to the world yesterday that his department was not to be used for political purposes. One of din and in the direction of Van. Eleven to be used for political purposes. One of these is in the shape of a complaint from a postal agent because of his arduous duties not giving him time to devote to the building up of the administration party. The other case is in the shape of a complaint made against a newly-appointed postmaster who, it was alleged, was not in sympathy with the administration. Of course Mr. Key was eloquent in his replies to both cases.

DISPATCHES from Paris state that Saturday's sitting of the chamber of deputies was one of the most violent ever witnessed. The Times's correspondent says it extended over five hours and a half, and during that long time there was one prelonged roar of vociferations. At one time, when Gambetta said that the power was in suspicious hands, the minister of public works, started with a threatening air toward the tribunal, and the members of the right dashed forward. The ushers had to separate the hostile parties. It really seemed as if there would be a hand-tohand fight. All instinctively waited for the reports of revolvers.

THE APPEAL is under obligations to Sergeant W. M'Eiroy, in charge of the Memphis station of the signal service bureau, for the valuable table to be found in our river reports on the third page, giving accurate statistics of the rain-fall during each month from the first of January to the present date. It will be seen that rain fell on seventy-eight days, the aggregate for the five and a half months being 42.66, which is within 10.34 of the average rain-fall for twelve months. If, as some will argue, what is gained in one place is lost in another, we may expect unusually dry weather during the remainder of the year.

On the southern frontier of Montenegro, however, the Turks were totally defeated by General Petrovitch in an engagement before Danilograd. Mehemet Ali telegraphs to the Porte from Kalachin, June 15th, announcing that he totally defeated the Montenegrus in the neighboring forests, the latter loosing upwards of two hundred killed, when the Ottoman troops returned to Kalachin. A dispatch from Berlin states that access to the shores of the Danube has been prohibited in many parts of Roumania. One of the forbidden localities is the country around Ginrgeve. The news from Montenegro is contradictory. Mehemet Ali telegraphs, under date of Saturday, that he defeated the corps of Mon- ville, Pennsylvania tenegrins concentrated on the road from Ritchina to Livaraka.

Sclavonic advices, via Ragusa, represent that Mehemet Ali has been completely de-feated near the river Jalinka. The Montenegrins pursued him and burned all the Turvillages in the Wassojevitch district. The Turks have been compelled to completely evacuate the Montenegrin territory. A special from Berlin says the czar is not well, in consequence of the unhealthy climate of Roumania, and will shortly return to Keiff, where preparations are already being made to receive him.

Since the czar's arrival fresh energy has been infused into all preparations, but this at first was somewhat neutralized by various railway break-downs. Those who do not believe in immediate operations explain the present great movement of troops by the sup-position that the commander-in-chief had reasons to considerably modify his plan, and that according to the new arrangements six of the eight army corps are to be concentrated in a comparatively short time between Giurgevo and Islos on the river Aluta. Both opinions are founded on observations on the spot. At Giurgevo steam launches have arrived and a large siege train is being collec-ted, while the eighth, eleventh and twelfth corps are ready to converge on that point. On the Aluta, behind Turna-Magureli, the ninth uneasiness is felt concerning the state of corps is in waiting, and the thirteenth is on Crete. Six battalions are to be sent there, is in Galatz, but will proceed westward, and probably cross about Techernovada or Kalor-wich with the fourth corps. Thus the former sanjak of Shamaka is now completely incorporated with Russia, under Russian civil government. It seems that in obedience to this plan of consolidating their conquests and making all sure behind them, the Russians will make no attack in the direction of Erzeroum until their center and left wing are quite free and prepared to co-operate therein. In connection with the former, the Moscow Gazette significantly remarks: "When we have secured the freedom of the Sclavs, and the question of material compensation arises, the incorporation of Armenia with Russia will probably be effected on as much Armenian as Russian interests."

NONE SEEMED WILLING TO GIVE IT UP YET Should the water recede soon enough, those that have seed enough will put in all the cot-ton they can; but few planters have seed now, wing to the sale to the oil companies and being shipped out of the country. Corn will be substituted where cotton-seed cannot be had, and many planters have expressed themselves that the greatest corn crop ever made would be turned out this year. They are aleady agitating the question of levees, and think work will be commenced soon for next year. From careful estimates it would be safe to say that two thirds of the crop on the Arkansas river is lost. A PASSENGER.
